

PO maintains Backlog

Groomed Stories

Coarse Epics

The Role of the Product Owner

Product Owners are crucial for product success as they decide what to build and what not to build. These decisions are based on constant dialogue with stake holders and dev team. The PO is the sole person managing the Product Backlog and ordering it to maximize value. They make sure the Backlog is visible and understood. For the PO to succeed, the entire organization must respect his or her decisions.

